

ABSTRACT

A method for isolating expressed sequence tags in different development phases of plants by germinating seeds in a suitable medium in the presence of 5-azaCytidine to forming shoots and then isolating such expressed sequence tags.